MESSAGE:

Dear Sarah,

Until today, I had never heard of you. You also have never heard of me! :) I'm a mom of 8 wonderful blessings, 2 now married, 6 still at home. Reading the announcement of the birth of your precious baby boy brought tears to my eyes. You see, I'm a volunteer firefighter in my "spare time". Today we had a very sad vehicle accident in which a man lost his life. While that alone is sad, it happened to be a man my husband had spoken to maybe an hour before at one of our ranches, he had been doing some repair electrical work. As you can imagine, it was a tough call. To kinda clear my thoughts I was checking my email and the byline stated you had had your 5th child, and the fact you believed every child was created for a reason and purpose and how you were blessed that God had chosen you and your family with this little precious bundle. I needed to hear/read that. See your little guy is already helping reach out to someone he probably will never meet! May you and your family rejoice in this new birth and the newest addition that was missing and you didn't even know it until he came :) Some day I will visit your great state that I have always thought of as beautiful. If you are ever in the central valley of CA look us up, we love to have visitors at our organic chicken farm. May you continue to be blessed in all you do, both professionally as a governor, wife and mom. hugs~~kelly
