MESSAGE:

Governor Palin -

In watching the last several months' state, national, economic, and social events I and my family want to express admiration for your approach to government. I, who have worked in local government for the last eight years, would typically not encourage a wife and mother to contend on the political battlefield, but I must confess that you have beaten my personal expectations that a man should be the first choice for the position of state governor. I step back in my expectations and offer even more support for your leadership than before. Your political posture, in view of the very Christian worldview you hold, is evidence to me that you have divine support in the area of public administration.

I and my wife have seven children - a cozy family - and we often feel like our leaders pass by long-term virtue for short-term, questionable political gain. We believe our Judeo-Christian foundation has been the solidity from which our freedoms have continued over the years, but so much compromise we see from leadership is very disappointing. However, we see a difference in you.

We appreciate so many of your stances on social, economic, and domestic issues. You have been willing to walk with graciousness and excellence - in a good, honest, and valuable way. You are an example to which we can point our children as we teach them at home.

In the time of weakness that comes with childbirth we want you to know that you're supported by like-sized families with a similar outlook on life, and as we pray nightly we'll include you and the burdens you bear.

Thank you for good leadership.
